IMAN TAJIK

'Where the Body Meets the Land'
Using his artwork as a tool to weld together trauma and awareness, Iman Tajik brings his frustration to the fore with jarring silence in his performance piece entitled 'Where the Body Meets the Land'. In an almost unwavering manner, Tajik will create an indented space as he paces hundreds of thousands of times from a flag pole, buried in the sand, hoisting up a shimmering gold emergency blanket, to the seashore and back. This act of line making refers to the thousands of refugees and migrants that have disembarked, including those that did not survive, onto UK shores.

The durational performance, which will take place on 26th and 27th September, will be accompanied by posters and text, which will also be sitespecific. Together these elements aim to create a dialogue to reflect on privilege and the restlessness between land and sea.

RHONA TAYLOR

'Gatherings'
An installation looking at the role of the Firth of Forth as a shelter for the ships that gathered here during the global pandemic. During the lockdown, four cruise ships and two English Channel ferries were given refuge in the Forth, becoming a visual reminder that the world had come to a standstill.

'Gatherings' invites visitors to the Joppa bandstand to view the work, which also references the site itself as a meeting or stopping point. It also considers some of the language that has changed or been given new significance during 2020, as gatherings first became illegal, and then subject to new rules and laws.

ANNIE LORD

'The Neighbouring Orchard': Pop-Up Gallery
Join artist Annie Lord for an exhibition exploring her project 'The Neighbouring Orchard'. TNO will see a network of apple trees planted this winter in local front and shared gardens across Portobello and beyond, linking together different neighbourhoods and communities. The pop-up gallery will showcase Annie's research and drawings, plus the chance to meet her and chat about the project.

DEIRDRE MACLEOD + CHRISTOPHER KACZMAREK

'play | relay | replay' (Sat 17 Oct, 8-9pm) is a public performance piece which links two cities, Edinburgh and New York, through walking, gesture and play. Artists Christopher Kaczmarek (New York) and Deirdre Macleod (Edinburgh) invite members of the public in both of their cities to join together in a project that combines whimsy and play with deeper themes of connection, separation and place. Gestures observed in one city will be performed in the other, captured on video and played back in the spaces in the city from which they were originally gathered.

This performance forms part of Deirdre's ongoing 'Flow Lines' residency which explores how gesture-based performance might create new relationships with urban space. Two artworks are situated on Portobello Promenade and at the Kilns. They include six sets of performance instructions for anyone to perform.

DAVID WILLIAMS

'The Promenader' Sat 26 Sept, 8.30-10pm (12 minute loop)
A large-scale video projection of a selection of work made by photographer David Williams on / from Portobello Promenade. Realised in collaboration with Andy McGregor with textual contribution by Edinburgh Makar, Alan Spence.

David Williams is an Edinburgh (Portobello) based photographer whose work has been widely exhibited and published. He was Head of Photography / Reader at Edinburgh College of Art and retired from higher education in 2017.

'THE LOCKDOWN DIARIES'

Sun 27th Sept 8.30-9.30pm
A series of projected images showing the collective participatory responses to many of the Art Walk's ongoing 'LandMark' Residencies during the recent lockdown, involving making, growing and walking at water's edges near & far:

Jenny Pope's 'Making Stuff, Feel Good'
Bristow+Wilson 'Abide: growing together, apart'
Deirdre Macleod 'Flow Lines'

GERI LOUP NOLAN

'Present in this Place'
"Break a vase, and the love that reassembles the fragments is stronger than that love which took its symmetry for granted when it was whole." Derek Walcott

During lockdown amid many reflective walks on the beach thinking about the implicit issues of isolation, wellness, containment, creativity, travel, purpose... Geri has collected 2,020 fragments and will install on the sand close to where she lives.

JENNY POPE

'Sea Masks'
This installation builds on Jenny's continued 'Material Land' residency relating to Portobello's industries whilst responding to current times. Once used by ceramic workers in Portobello's bottle kilns, masks are now suddenly a part of our everyday lives. They symbolise personal protection and public health, anti-viral, clinical or homemade. Also worn against tear gas by human rights protesters worldwide.

Sun 6 Sept, 2-4pm 'Making Stuff' (socially distanced) Workshop, Portobello Beach, by Swim Centre. Join Jenny in making stuff from found materials from Portobello Beach. Numbers limited, book via website.

JENNY MARTIN

'Fired Earth'
Small enough to hold in one hand, strong enough to hold up a building. Durable enough to last many lifetimes, cheap enough to be available to all. The brick is a lesson in simplicity and efficiency. It also shows us what is possible when a collection of simple individual elements work together. This installation in Porty Light Box of photographed bricks, collected by Jenny Martin and Stephen Long, records the working history of the land, specific to Portobello and beyond.

'TWO PLACES BY THE SEA'

Pairing place between Portobello, Edinburgh and Akureyri, Iceland, 'Two Places By The Sea' involves two groups of photographers, one from each location, who have worked together in pairs to produce images in response to a range of themes. Some examine the landscape and setting while others are more personal and intimate.
